About the Course

Callaway Gardens Lake View Golf Course

The Lake View Golf Course was renovated in 2002, 18-hole Lake View is Callaway's original course, designed by J.B. McGovern and Dick Wilson. Cason Callaway himself provided the inspiration for Lake View's layout. Mr. Callaway believed that playing golf should be a pleasant experience in beautiful surroundings.

Lake View's challenge lies in its nine water holes and its landscaping of azaleas, dogwoods and seasonal flowers.

The dramatic renovations to this course include new bunkers, TifEagle greens, new cart paths and improved landscaping. For those who have not played Lake View recently, you'll find the changes quite pleasing.

The 6,031-yard par 70 course is well known for hole Number 10 with its island tee and serpentine bridge over Mountain Creek Lake to the green in front of the original clubhouse.

From regular tees, the course rating is 68.6 with a slope rating of 123. From ladies' tees, the course rating is 71.1 and the slope is 121.

Support MATHCOUNTS

The Georgia Society of Professional Engineers holds the annual MATHCOUNTS golf outing as a fundraiser for the state MATHCOUNTS endowment. MATHCOUNTS is a national effort by the National Society of Professional Engineers to encourage students to compete and display their math knowledge and skills. The competition starts with students competing on the local level, then state wide and culminating with a National Competition. In 2003, the National MATHCOUNTS competition was televised on ESPN. National winners are invited to the White House as guests of President to raise awareness of the importance of the math and science education in the America. Mathletes often pursue degrees and careers in engineering and sciences.

All proceeds from the outing will go to the MATHCOUNTS endowment.
